SYMPHONY CONCERT IN CHAPEL DEC. 14

First Concert on Winter Entertainment Course

101 PIECES IN ENSEMBLE

Pierre Monteux Conductor Since 1916

On Wednesday evening, December 14, the Student Life Committee will present the second of the winter series of entertainments, which is an orchestral concert by the Boston Symphony Society, Pierre Monteux, conductor,

Founded in 1881

In 1881 the late Major Henry L. Higginson realized the first dream and aspiration of his life by founding in Boston a full-sized symphony orchestra, a rare phenomenon in those days. This noted musician, financier, soldier and public-spirited citizen believed that there was a musical public for such an undertaking. Sparing no expense, he engaged the finest available musicians of Europe to fill up the ranks, and brought to this country one after another of the world's greatest conductors to lend their individual genius to the cumulative improvement of the ensemble.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra had, in its original form, only 60 players, and its conductor was George Henschel, a celebrated musician of the day. The initial aims, which have always since been adhered to, were that the musicians should play under one conductor in one orchestra, and not debase their talents by routine engagements; that the symphony concerts should comprise only the finest music; that artistic considerations be always paramount and that the conductor be given absolute control. Controversy waxed hot in those days. The policies, the programs, even the wisdom of the whole venture, were bitterly attacked and staunchly defended. But the wisdom of the founder was justified as each succeeding year of the orchestra added growth and success to the last.

Has Had Famous Leaders

The second conductor, Wilhelm Gerick, engaged in 1884, was a thorough and arduous musician, who did much toward training the ensemble to its now traditional state of perfection. In 1889 came Arthur Nikisch, one of the most brilliant conductors of all time, who in turn was succeeded by Emil Pauer in 1893. In 1898 Mr. Gerick returned for a period of eight years, during which time Symphony Hall was built especially for the Orchestra in 1900. The conductors since then have been Karl Muck 1906-08; Max Fiedler 1908-12; Karl Muck 1912-18; Henry Raband 1919, and since then Pierre Monteux.

The fame of the Orchestra had during these years risen to preeminence. The perfection of the Boston Symphony performances had become the marvel of America and even of the musical world at large. Nothing comparable was to be heard elsewhere.

Monteux Conductor Since 1919

In the autumn of 1919, Pierre Monteux, recognized as one of the greatest living conductors, was offered the post, and during the season of 1919-20 he became the permanent conductor. His genius has added new qualities of

COUNCIL APPROVES HONOR SYSTEM

Announce Recommendation At Meeting Last Night

FOOTBALL LETTERS LARGER

Undergraduate Body Votes Change In "M"

That the student council has recommended the adoption of the honor system at Middlebury was announced at a meeting of the Undergraduate Association last night in McCullough Gymnasium. No definite action on the report was taken at this time but it is expected that President Gollnick will have a full report to make to the college in a short time.

Upon recommendation of the Letter Committee it was voted that the football "M" should hereafter be slightly larger than the letter as it now is and that the "M" for all other sports shall retain its former size and style. A committee was appointed to consider the question of sweaters for the football letter men and it was also recommended to present "shingles" to the regular football men.

The Auditing Committee was requested to inquire into the point system now in use with a view toward a better adjustment. It was also decided to consider the requirements for baseball letters and to determine the exact status of Cross-Country. The matter of track letters was laid over for discussion at a later meeting.

Secretary Norman B. Polhemus '24 was elected Press Club reporter for the association. Entertainment was furnished by the "Souless Quartet", Reigelman, Daly, Leary and Savitt '25 assisted by E. Gollnick '25 on the piano.

PROFESSOR LACALLE EDITS STANDARD SPANISH SERIES

Announcement was made yesterday of a new series of Spanish text-books to be published under the editorship of Professor J. Moreno-Lacalle of the Department of Spanish. The series is to be known as the Standard Spanish Series and it aims to fill a long felt want in Spanish text-books. The books will be written in idiomatic Spanish, and will be made up of lively, interesting subject matter, prepared in strict accordance with the best principles of sound linguistic pedagogy as to methods of technique.

The initial book of the series, "Composicion Oral Y Escrita," written by Professor Moreno-Lacalle will be published the first of the year. There are seven books in the series, all dealing with advanced Spanish, except one which is an elementary Spanish reader, written jointly by Professor Moreno-Lacalle and Professor Francisca Martinez of the New York State College for Teachers.

FRATERNITIES TO HOLD PLEDGE DAY SATURDAY

Rushing season for fraternities will close Friday evening at 10:30 o'clock and bids will be in the hands of Professor Harrington at 11 o'clock, to be mailed to prospective men in Saturday morning's mail. Answers to invitations must be returned to the post office not later than 12 o'clock Saturday noon.

EIGHTY ATTEND SOPHOMORE HOP

Very Enjoyable Dance In Gym Thursday Evening

FERDI'S ORCHESTRA PLAYS

President and Mrs. Moody Among Patrons

Eighty couples attended the first formal dance of the year given last Wednesday evening in McCullough Gymnasium when, according to custom, the class of 1923 gave the Sophomore Hop. Music for twenty dances and one extra was furnished by Ferdi's six piece "Orchestra Unique" from Troy, N. Y., which instilled more than the usual "pep" and variety into their selections. The dancing lasted from 8 o'clock until 2.

R. M. Savage '24, class president and Miss Dorothy M. Taylor, vice-president led the grand march, which was terminated by the singing of "March, March on Down the Field."

The hall was very attractively and distinctively decorated, a new scheme of overhead hangings being employed for the first time. The whole ceiling was overhung with foot-long red and black crepe paper arranged in 24 squares with crossing supports. Lights were strung around the sides of the hall and opposite the orchestra, which was placed on the stage, "1924" flashed intermittently in red lights against a black background.

Fruit salad, sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee were served at intermission and punch was available during the entire evening. The catering was in charge of the "Corporation", a college organization.

Unfortunately the dance orders were not received by the committee in time for the dance though ordered sufficiently in advance. President and Mrs. Paul Dwight Moody, Dean Eleanor S. Ross, Dean and Mrs. Edgar J. Wiley, Professor and Mrs. J. Stanton Kingsley, Mrs. Maude O. Mason and Mrs. Kate M. Mills acted as patrons and patronesses. The dance was in charge of a committee consisting of Messrs. Arthur Witham, chairman, Hunter, Cruikshank, Force, Lorenzo and Botsford and Misses Quigley, Foster, Walsh, Angier, Kirby and Mead.

PRESIDENT MOODY GUEST AT COLLEGE ASS'N DINNER

President Paul Dwight Moody will be a guest of honor at a dinner and reception to be given by the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, on the occasion of the opening of their thirty-sixth annual meeting, at the Hotel Vendome in Boston, Mass. Among the guests and speakers who will attend the conference are President Angell of Yale University, United States Commissioner of Education, John J. Tigert, Dr. Frank E. Spaulding, Dean of the Yale School of Education and Dean William M. Warren of Boston University.

On Saturday evening President Moody will be the principle speaker at the annual meeting of the Boston Alumni Association, who will hold their banquet in the Parker House, Boston. A large number of the Middlebury Alumni and friends are expected to attend this meeting, as it will be their first opportunity to greet President Moody.

BASKETBALL SEASON TO OPEN AT HOME

'Varsity To Play Norwich Here Dec. 10

12 GAMES ON SCHEDULE

First Trip Includes Harvard Dartmouth and Trinity

Basketball Schedule for 1921-1922

Dec. 10—Norwich at Middlebury
Dec. 14—Dartmouth at Hanover
Dec. 15—Trinity at Hartford
Dec. 16—Harvard at Cambridge
Dec. 17—Open
Jan. 6—St. Lawrence at Middlebury
Jan. 7—Vermont at Burlington
Jan. 18—Vermont at Middlebury
Feb. 15—St. Michaels at Middlebury
Feb. 17—Clarkson at Potsdam
Feb. 18—St. Lawrence at Canton
Feb. 22—Norwich at Northfield

Announcement was made yesterday of a schedule of twelve games for the 'varsity basketball team, including a four day Christmas trip which will include games with Harvard, Dartmouth and Trinity. St. Lawrence, Clarkson and St. Michaels have been added to this year's card.

The Norwich quintet is on for the opener which will be played in the McCullough Gymnasium one week from Saturday. The visiting team is a member of the league that annually decides the state championship, and since Vermont has made basketball a major sport, the all-important question of a state series must be settled by these games. Reports from Northfield state that the five from Norwich is much stronger than their representatives last year.

Dartmouth Game December 14

The 'varsity calls for seven games abroad, and four at Middlebury. Following the opening game with Norwich, the team will leave on its Christmas trip meeting Dartmouth at Hanover for the opening contest away from home. From here they go to Hartford to play Trinity and unless a game is secured for the open date will end the trip in Cambridge following the Harvard game. St. Lawrence comes here on January 7, while on the next day the Middlebury team will play Vermont at Burlington. The U. V. M. quintet invades Middlebury on January 18.

While the date of the return game with St. Michaels has not been arranged, the representatives of that college will play the Blue here on February 15. It is likely that the second trip, which begins on February 17 when the Middlebury five plays Clarkson Tech, followed by the St. Lawrence game at Canton the next day, will end with the game at Winooski with the St. Michaels outfit.

'Varsity Squad Cut to 20

The 'varsity squad, under the direction of Coach Brown, has been cut to 20 men and probably this number will be kept for the present. Although no permanent five has been selected it is probable that Hardy, who stood out as one of the stars on last year's team, will be selected to start in one of the forward positions in the opening game with Norwich. Captain Leonard will in all probability start at forward

A Question of Finance

A year ago at this time The Campus printed an editorial advising serious consideration of the adviseability of a Middlebury literary magazine, and enumerated the two prime difficulties attendant upon the project, namely "the lack of financial support and an editorial staff which would be willing to devote the necessary amount of time and attention to the work. Twelve months have passed since then and still the latent desires which has repeatedly asserted itself in many circles, has not yet found expression in actual accomplishment.

The case is not hopeless. A canvass among students and faculty known to be interested has proven conclusively that there is abundant material for an editorial staff. This removes the second of the obstacles defined by The Campus, but the first, that of financial considerations, presents the more serious difficulties. No magazine, however modest can operate without funds and so long as money is lacking, nothing more can be done to make the publication a reality. The sum needed is not great. A hundred dollars would start the editors on their way and twice that sum would insure publication for a year at least. The Campus can not afford to assume the entire additional burden, much as it would like to. Is it possible to get alumni, undergraduate and administration support to an enterprise of this sort?

We need not again enumerate the benefits that would accrue from a magazine devoted to things literary. Our predecessors have done that for us. The fact remains that Middlebury offers no real outlet for fictional ability, for stories, verse and interesting articles of all sorts. The Campus does not supply the want; neither does The Kaleidoscope. But doesn't the college owe it to those with a desire for truly creative writing that they should provide some medium whereby their efforts can be brought out for publication and criticism?

More Singing

The promotion of interest in music which has to some extent been evident lately is greatly to be advocated. That the refining and cultural influence of music has an important effect in cultivating an appreciation of what is really worth while and in producing a widened sphere of education is undeniable. It is not, as many people seem to believe, an art to be set aside merely for the benefit of the cultured few or for those who may take a more active interest in it. It can on the contrary be universally enjoyed and should be participated in by the majority of students.

Group singing is one of the most generally accepted methods of doing this and those who have not availed themselves of the organized glee clubs or whose talent does not warrant them a place in the college choir, can at least join in the ensemble chapel singing. There is often evident in the daily chapel service a deplorable lack of volume, a half-hearted effect which is sufficient proof of the fact that very few are actually taking part in the singing. Every student should feel that he is an integral part of the whole, that what he can give to the service is not merely desirable but absolutely essential in order that it may reach its fullest effectiveness.

CORRECTION

In last week's Campus the statement was made that Dr. Kline was the retiring president of the Faculty Club. This was an error, in that the report should have read, "retiring secretary-treasurer." Professor Burrage was the retiring president of the organization.

BOTH COLLEGES OBSERVE THANKSGIVING DAY

President and Mrs. Paul Dwight Moody, Dean and Mrs. Edgar J. Wiley and Professor and Mrs. Luther I. Bonney were guests of honor at the Thanksgiving dinner in Hepburn Commons Thursday afternoon, for those students of the men's college who remained on the campus over the holiday. A very attractive feast including grapefruit, roast Vermont turkey and oyster dressing, mashed potatoes, squash, cranberry sauce, pickles, olives, celery, mince and pumpkin pie, plum pudding, cake, candy, nuts and coffee was prepared by "Mother" Mason, matron of Hepburn Hall.

President Moody, Dean Wiley and Professor Bonney responded to invitations by E. J. Gallagher '23 who acted as informal toastmaster, and delivered short but timely after dinner speeches. Songs and cheers for the speakers and "Mother" Mason completed the entertainment.

Women Present Play

Celebration at the Women's College of the Thanksgiving holiday took the form of a turkey dinner at Battell Cottage and the presentation of a play "Cinderella" by the Y. W. C. A. in Pearsons' Social Hall, Thursday afternoon.

"Cinderella" was very cleverly and attractively staged under the direction of Miss Ruth MacArthur '22 and Miss Ruth C. Cowles '24. The costuming was very effective and the minuet measures rendered were enthusiastically received. The cast of characters was as follows:

|---|---|
| Cinderella, | Polly Broomell '25 |
| Her Mother, | Helen Sheldon '25 |
| Cinderella's Sister, | Ruth Nelson '24 |
| Cinderella's Sister, | Gertrude Weller '23 |

Incidental music for the pantomine as well as the song accompaniment between scenes was played by Miss Hilda Woodruff '22.

SENIOR AND FROSH LEAD IN SERIES

Juniors and Sophs Trail in Interclass Basketball—Three Games This Week

Interclass Basketball Standing

| | G | W | L | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Seniors | 2 | 2 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Freshmen | 2 | 2 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Juniors | 2 | 0 | 2 | .000 |
| Sophomores | 2 | 0 | 2 | .000 |

With but two games remaining in the first round of the annual interclass basketball series, the seniors and freshmen were tied for first place while the juniors and sophomores were running a neck and neck race for the cellar. On Saturday the seniors defeated the sophomores while at the same time the yearling five defeated the juniors.

A single point secured by the seniors in the last minutes of play in their game with the sophomore five Saturday afternoon in the McCullough Gymnasium, saved them from a probable defeat by the second year men. At the end of the first half the seniors led by one point having secured three field goals, to the two field goals and one foul goal by their opponents. In the second half both teams played on practically even terms, both securing five points. The final score was seniors 11, sophomores 10.

Following the senior-sophomore game the freshmen five continued their attack upon the upper classes, defeating the junior quintet to the tune of 19-11. The abundance of material possessed by the yearling squad was a great factor in the victory gained by the first year men, as they were able to play ten men to the single five used by their opponents. Rich, who had starred for the freshmen in former games, proved their high point man in this contest, scoring four field goals, while White was the high point man for the juniors.

In a fast game in the McCullough Gymnasium yesterday, the seniors completely outclassed the juniors by the score of 15-4. The seniors led the contest throughout the game. Lane was the high point scorer for the seniors, caging two baskets from the floor and three fouls.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB PLANS CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

Preparations are now under way for a Christmas Bazaar to be given by the members of the Home Economics Club in the Pedagogy Library on Saturday, December 10. Candy and fancy articles will be on sale and tea will be served from the hours of four to six. A Christmas tree to take the place of the usual grab bag will be one of the features of the bazaar.

At a recent meeting of the club the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Muriel Long '23, vice-president, Alice Littlefield '23, secretary-treasurer, Ruth Cowles '22.

German Club Meets

On Thanksgiving eve the German club met for an "informal good time" in the band room with songs and light refreshments. This next Saturday afternoon the club will carry out the old German custom of going after the Christmas tree, leaving Weybridge St. promptly at 1:30. Miss Schuller is very anxious that all the German department be out with toboggans and sleds to help bring back the tree.

Coates '11 Writing Detective Stories

Interesting, thrilling and well-written stories by Frederick Ames Coates '11 have been appearing in The Detective Story Magazine. Mr. Coates has gained considerable prominence by reason of his short poems published in The New York Sun and Chicago Daily News. He is a teacher in Newton Vocational High School.

Roy Harris '17, instructor at M. A. C., is visiting his parents in town and friends at college.

Miss Louise Chaffee '08

The funeral services of Miss Louise Chaffee '08 were held Wednesday afternoon, November 23, at New Haven, Vt. Her death occurred from an operation for mastoid abscess.

Miss Chaffee received a Master's degree from Middlebury in 1912 and was recently an instructor in Latin in the State Normal School of Pennsylvania. She was a member of the Pi Beta Phi Sorority.

COMMUNICATION

Concord, N. H.
Nov. 26, 1921.

To the Editor of The Campus:—

The editorial in the current issue of The Campus on football publicity is absolutely correct.

I have myself experienced marked evidences of its accuracy. I live in the midst of men graduated from Dartmouth, Harvard and the other New England colleges, particularly those of Massachusetts and Connecticut. I am known, I hope and believe, as a thoroughly loyal Middlebury man, who will boost his college any time with or without notice.

This fall the respect accorded Middlebury's fighting football team is astonishing, and as gratifying as astonishing. Beginning at the time of the Harvard game, followed by those with Dartmouth, Williams and others, the performances of our team have been discussed in my presence, and with me, in the most complimentary terms by college men, who, loyal to the teams of their own colleges, yet love to see a good football organization anywhere, and will recognize it when they do, in the spirit of thorough sportsmanship.

The development of our team has been quite a genuine sensation among followers of the great game in this locality. Our local papers give space to all Middlebury games in their columns and on their bulletin boards, and I know they receive many telephone calls Saturday afternoons as to the result of Middlebury contests.

I have heard it said many times this fall that Dave Morey has done a wonderful piece of work at Middlebury.

Needless to say, this is all a matter of very great pride to me.

Very sincerely yours,
HARRY F. LAKE, '99

PROFESSOR LACALLE TO PUBLISH NEW CATALOG

Professor J. Moreno-Lacalle, head of the Spanish Department and Dean of the Spanish School, who recently was appointed Editor-In-Chief of all college publications, announced yesterday that the College Catalog would be published by the Department of College Publications. On October 1, the new plan of printing all the college publications and circulars and form letters by the Department of College Publications, was inaugurated. At that time it was not planned, however, to publish the catalog.

The new catalog will be published in three parts. Part one to include the college proper, a statement of courses, and the Men's College, while part two will be devoted solely to the Women's College. Part three will be a statement of the courses offered for the summer session, as well as description of the work carried on by the four schools.

PRESIDENT MOODY VESPERS SPEAKER

Takes Story of Balaam's Life For Subject of Inspiring Sermon in Mead Chapel

The story of Balaam's unhappy life was the subject of the sermon by President Paul Dwight Moody at vesper service in Mead Memorial Chapel Sunday evening. The text was taken from Micah 6:8, "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?"

"Balaam was a man of curious insight and intuition", said President Moody, "yet his life ended in squalor, an enemy of God." Rev. Moody then proceeded to show how such a condition was possible. In prayer he began to trifle with God, to see if God had changed His mind, and when a man begins to do this a mist is drawn over his eyes.

President Moody showed that we can trace his downward journey through three great mistakes. First he mistook the nature of right and wrong; he did not realize that what is right is eternally so. Second, he mistook the nature of prayer. We, too, so often try to bring God down to our own level, and do not realize that prayer should be a process of lifting ourselves up to conform to the divine will. Third, he mistook the nature of God. We think such little thoughts about God, and do not realize his wisdom and righteousness. "These", said President Moody, in closing, "are the three things that have brought many a great man low".

TO TAKE PICTURES FOR KALEIDOSCOPE

White Studio Will Arrange Sittings On And After December 5—Photos Ready by Christmas

Final announcement is made by the photographic editors of the 1923 Kaleidoscope Board that work will be commenced by the photographers on Monday morning, December 5. During the course of the week appointment slips will be handed to those desiring a sitting, and a definite time will be determined upon. The importance of keeping the assigned date is urged very strongly upon the students, for the entire work is carried on according to schedule and any slight delay caused by students disorganizes the whole day's work.

Any one outside the junior class, desiring a sitting, should apply at once to the Board, as the schedule of the work is to be completed as soon as possible. It is expected that pictures especially ordered will be finished in ample time for ouse as Christmas gifts.

The place where sittings are to be held has not yet been definitely decided upon, but further announcement will be made at the earliest opportunity.

and as he has demonstrated his ability as a fast and agressive player in former years, it is certain that he will be on his toes to equal, if not better, his past performances. Lacy and Timberman will also be selected.

In the interclass series Ryan, Axtel and Wilson have been prominent for the sophomores, while Rich and Daly have done effective work for the first year men. It is probable that selections will be made from these men to fill the positions made vacant by the graduation of Davis and Heath, who starred on last year's quintet .

beauty to the famous organization and never have the concerts been more highly praised or evidently enjoyed than under his direction.

Strives For Balanced Program

His audiences, Mr. Monteux strives to please with programs which are well ordered and balanced, interesting and eventful in their variety of nationality and period. He has accordingly made himself popular above all others as a compiler of programs and in this he has already directly moulded public taste toward the best even while pleasing it. This is particularly noticeable in his courageous championship of rising and unrecognized genius. Realizing that the daring music of today and tomorrow is apt to sound strange at first, Mr. Monteux has made it famous by making it familiar.

The present contract with the orchestra was made possible because of adjacent appearances and is a noteworthy event in the annals of Vermont musical history. The whole strength of the ensemble, numbering 101 men will be employed. Announcement of the program will follow in next week's issue.

Mary Vail Button ex-'23, who is studying at Smith, visited at the college over the week-end.

Miss Eleanor R. Anderson of East Orange, N. J., visited Miss Barbara Browning over Thanksgiving holiday.
